

RIVIER NURSES PROVIDE ACUTE CARE OVERSEAS

(From Rivier Today, Fall 2020)

Rivier undergraduate and graduate nursing students traveled to Tanzania last February to provide medical assistance to this small East African nation. Led by faculty members Dr. Marilyn Daley and Jennifer Thompson, students spent 10 days providing a variety of general medical, nursing, and pharmacy services.

Despite the beauty of the wildlife-rich Serengeti plains and Mount Kilimanjaro, the country faces many challenges—poor infrastructure, low education levels, poverty, and diseases—including a shortage of health professionals and little to no access to healthcare services. Working with local doctors, students conducted both home and clinic visits treating more than 217 people!

To share in this life-changing experience, view the travel vlog of their medical mission in Tanzania at <https://bit.ly/3hei9WD>. ■