

DISCOVERING SCOTLAND

Seth Osher
London, United Kingdom

Shipwreck, Machir Bay, Islay, Schotland

Follow the leader, Bridgend, Scotland

These photographs were taken by Seth Osher during the recent trip with his family to Scotland. They enjoyed the pictorial views of cows crossing the bay at low tide; ruins of the medieval castle and the young tree growing near its wall; boats smiling at their reflections in the harbor, and many other scenic views. Each photo shows the beauty of nature, the touches of history and Scottish people who make this solitary land a peaceful place to live.

Tunnel Vision, Craigellachie, Scotland

Smiling Ships, Campbeltown, Scotland

Davaar Island, Kintyre, Scotland

Castle and Tree, Skipness, Scotland

On the road to nowhere, Port Ellen, Scotland

Isolation, Isle of Arran, Scotland

The End of the Rainbow, Dunstaffnage Castle, Dunbeg, Scotland

Oak barrels with Scotch whisky

Warehouse No 1, Aberlour, Scotland

* SETH OSHER grew up in Manchester, NH and has taken photographs since his mother first put a camera in his hands at the tender age of three. In high school he had his own darkroom where he polished techniques that have faded into obscurity thanks to Adobe™, though he still tries to practice their digital equivalent. Today he lives in London, England with his family and when not working loves to photograph the nature and people surrounding their travels.
