The copyright law effective January 1, 1978, gives the copyright of a work to the person who wrote it. Rivier College prefers to hold the copyright of any work it publishes, with the clear understanding that the author and the author's organization have the right to reproduce it in print form (nonelectronic) for their own purposes, provided that the reproductions are not for sale. Copyright Form A does this.

- A

I assign copyright to my work to Rivier College, giving the College all rights to it except that I and the organization by which I was employed at the time I wrote the manuscript have the right of further print reproductions, in part or in full, provided they are not for sale. This reproduction right does not include distribution of the work via the Internet or by other electronic means. [Note: If Copyright Form A is selected, the notice will read as follows: "Copyright 2005 by the Rivier College. All rights reserved."]

Occasionally, special situations arise in which the author (or his organization, if he has assigned his copyright to it) wishes to retain the copyright in his (or its) name. In such a case, Rivier College requires a license to publish the work. Copyright Form B should be used for this purpose.

- B

I hereby license Rivier College to publish this work and to use it for all of Rivier College's current and future print and electronic uses. [Note: If the author retains copyright (Copyright Form B), the notice, in the name of the copyright holder, will read as follows: "Copyright 2005 by _____ . Published by the Rivier College, with permission."]

I Agree that all of the above statements are true.
